Tempe News Notes

EXCELLENT MUSICAL AT NORMAL TONIGHT

Tonight at the Normal School Auditorium is to occur what will prove the leading musicale of the year. Local and Phoenix talent have combined to afford Tempe citizens a real evening of thorough musical entertainment. Either one of the two parts of which the lengthy program is made up is well worth the admission price. The first is generously contributed to by the Redwell family of Phoenix whose extensive and varied repertoire is well known and always is a drawing card. This part consists of vocal, violin, clarinet, piano, and victrola solos and duets. Part two will be rendition of the cantata by Paul Biles given by the Ladies Glee Club under the direction of Professor Johnston and the programs afford the audience a running analysis of the theme of both the music and the words of the author which is nothing more than its name infers, "A Midsummer Night."

MIND READER

May Howard who has been mystifying hundreds in Phoenix during the past week with her clever mind reading and spirit cabinet act, will appear at the Goodwin opera house tonight. She guarantees to answer questions from the audience even before they are seen, and also with all lights on will
